

Eddingtons Ltd is delighted to announce its collaboration with the National Trust, Europe's largest conservation charity in producing a stunning new range of toughened glass worktop protectors. This range is inspired by the work and passion of the Trust and designed to raise awareness of the work that goes into the conservation of open spaces and buildings in England, Northern Ireland and Wales.

There are two collections of Worktop Protectors included in the initial launch. The National Trusts' iconic and easily recognisable oak leaf logo features on all items from the Nature Collection, commissioned with watercolour artist and nature enthusiast Louise Nisbet BA Hons (Fine Art). The illustrations feature countryside scenes, native flora and fauna, animals and insects all reflecting projects undertaken by the National Trust and its team of rangers.

The range of Worktop Protectors are made from toughened clear glass and produced at our Tuftop works located in rural Berkshire.
